

DOWIE ARRIVES FULL OF FIGHT

Will Not Go To Zion City Today, But Waits
Legal Papers Before He Starts.

PRESENT MOVE SURPRISE TO ALL

Chicago Agog With Excitement Over The Possible Outcome--Prophet Goes To Auditorium Hotel

Direct.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago, April 10.—John Alexander Dowie arrived in Chicago at 9 a. m. over the Wabash railway and proceeded immediately to the Auditorium hotel in Chicago.

Delays His Visit
Dr. Dowie was in excellent spirits and his health good. At the hotel Dowie made the following statement: "The fight that I will make to regain my prestige in Zion City will be a legal one. I do not think it wise for me at this time to proceed at once to Zion City, as I fear my enemies have set a trap that would do bad injuries to me. As soon as I am armed with the necessary legal document I shall proceed to Zion City and take possession. This will be probably some time tomorrow."

Papers Not Served
A deputy sheriff attempted to serve some kind of legal document upon Dowie at the depot, but his followers pushed the deputy aside and prevented the service. It is possible it was the summons in a suit brought by Dr. William G. Stearns, who claims that $500 is due him from Dowie for services as an insanity expert three years ago. Dr. Stearns alleges that he gave expert testimony in an action as to the sanity of a Mrs. Mary Thall, one of Dowie's followers, and that he was to receive $100 a day.

More Trouble
At Waukegan, also, Dowie may encounter trouble, as County Treasurer Price is expected to make demand upon Dowie for the long overdue taxes of Zion City. W. S. Peckham is collector for Zion City, and has been unable to get the money from the present administration, which declares that Dowie has squandered the tax money.

Is Unexpected
Dowie's move to remain in Chicago until armed with legal papers is unexpected. Voliva had planned an unexpected. Voliva had planned a possibility of his arrest on legal charges should he have visited Zion City today. Both Dowie and Voliva have hurriedly fled at each other for some days past. The last from Dowie to Voliva over the wire is as follows:

Dowie's Orders
Wilbur Glenn Voliva and his lieutenants well may tremble for I, the first apostle, am about to banish them from the city which they have so treacherously seized. As I speed toward Zion, the Lord's voice tells me my detractors are in a state of mental panic and that the faithful will greet me as their true and only leader. Woe unto them who may remain disloyal!—John Alexander Dowie.

The Reply
If John Alexander Dowie comes to Zion City in peace, well and good. If he seeks war he will find that we are prepared for it. He will not be allowed to harangue the people and thereby incite disturbances and create disorder. His threats to have us arrested do not frighten me in the least. Two can play at that game. When the time comes I will confront him with the charges against him and he will have an opportunity to defend himself.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva.

FEAST OF THE PASSOVER OR JEWISH EASTER BEGUN

Quaint Old Customs Brought Down From Pre-Christian Days, Observed In New York Ghetto.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, April 10.—Today marks the beginning of the feast of the Passover, one of the most important Jewish festivals of the year. It is the Jewish Easter, according to the Hebrew chronology, and is observed by all branches of the faith, the reformed section abbreviating the season of uncleaned bread to seven days, and being less strict as to the fulfillment of the ancient tradition. The initial services of the feast are in the homes of the worshippers, after a season in the synagogue.

One quaint and interesting custom which is observed by strictly orthodox families is "B'ikas Chumetz," searching for leaven, which begins twenty-four hours before the Passover. Then in the strictest silence the whole house is thoroughly searched. Every corner and crevice is looked into to see that no "chumetz" or leaven is left in the building; for every orthodox Jew deems it his solemn duty to see that everything containing leaven is removed from the house. The head of the house, with a large wooden spoon and a feather in one hand and a wax taper in the other, followed by the rest of the family, searches the house thoroughly from top to bottom. If any crumbs of leaven should be found they are brushed into the spoon with the feather; then the feather is placed on top and the two tied together with a string. On the following morning the whole thing is burned, the house is declared clean, and preparations are immediately begun for the great feast on the following day.

For a week or more previous to the Passover the pushcart men of the

New York ghetto make a harvest. In the streets of the lower East side their carts, which line the curbs, make the thoroughfares almost impassable. Table ornaments, crockery, plates, ribbons, pictures, lamps, baskets, groceries, meats and, in fact, almost all the needs of the East Side are supplied from the pushcarts. Many in this season buy entire new outfits of clothing in order that everything they have on their bodies may be absolutely clean, and it is the ambition of every Jewish housewife to have as many new furnishings in her home on this occasion as her purse can buy. Houses are swept, and scrubbed from top to bottom, every sign of dirt is removed, and new furniture and cooking utensils are bought to replace anything of the kind that shows signs of being unsanitary. For those who are too poor to buy new plates, there is the law of "kasherizing." A hole is dug in the ground, a stone or large piece of solid metal, which has been brought to a white heat, is placed within, and those things which are to be "kasherized" are placed on top. Boiling water is then poured over this, and the things are not removed until all steam has disappeared. After being rinsed they are dried and put away ready for use.

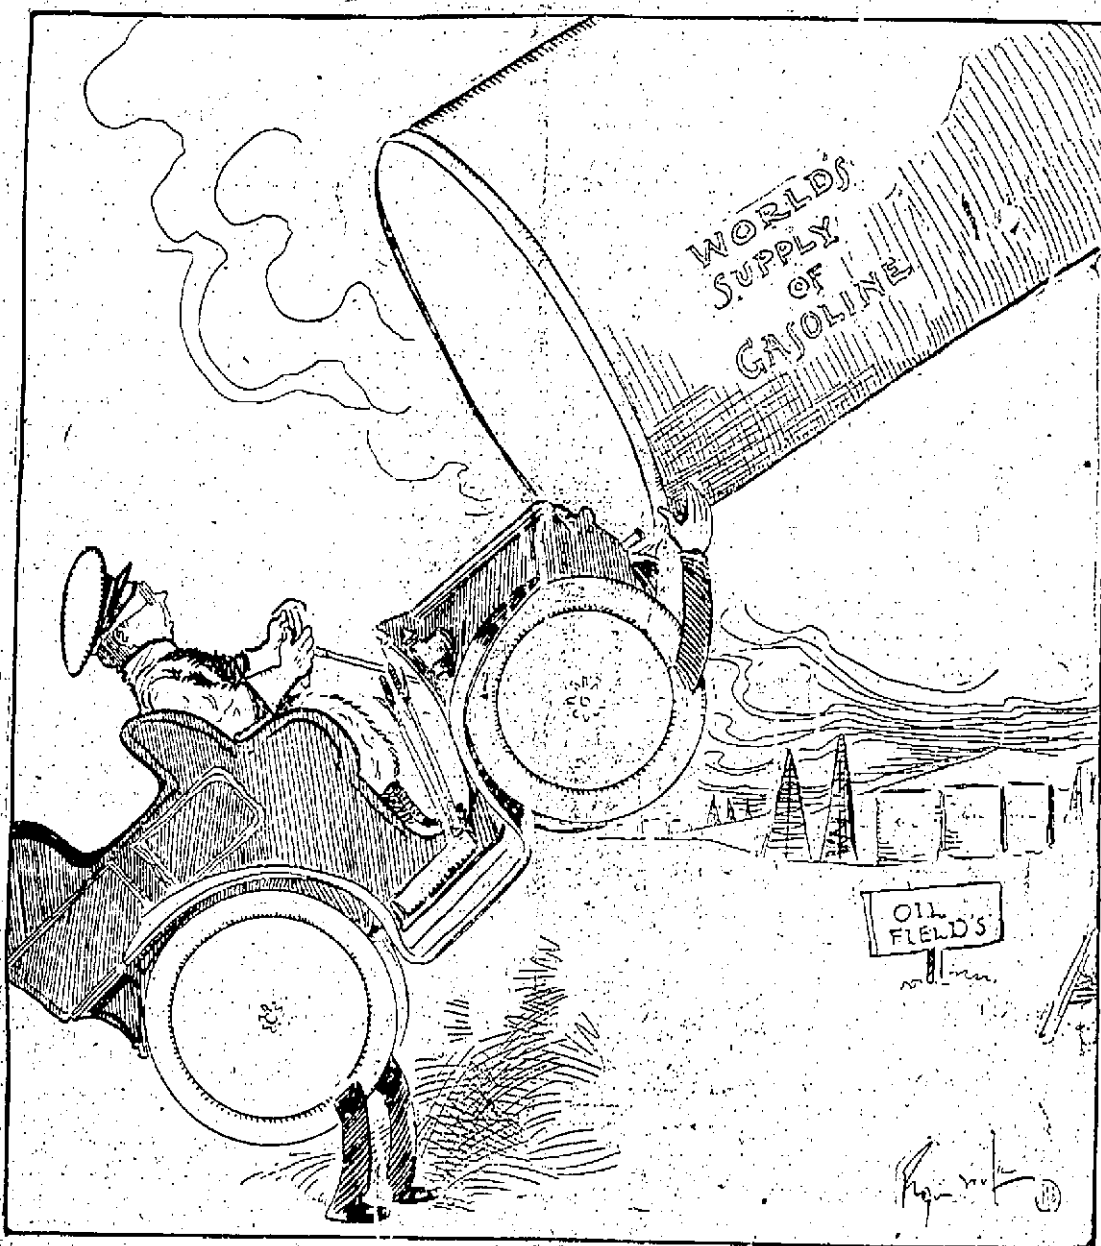

Only unleavened bread, or "matzoth," is allowed to be eaten in Passover week, and every family lays in a supply. Over 1,250,000 pounds of "matzoth," or $1,250,000 cakes, are consumed in New York City by its Hebrew population every Passover. The orthodox and foreign Jews will have nothing by hand made "matzoth," but the American and Reformed Jews use those made by machinery.

Founder of Salvation Army At His Home in London Receives Congratulations From Entire Civilized World.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

London, April 10.—From every country of the civilized world messages conveying congratulations and good wishes poured in today upon General Booth, founder and head of the Salvation Army, on the occasion of his seventy-seventh birthday. Though in the early part of his career General Booth was the butt of ridicule and insult and not infrequently was pelted with rubbish when he appeared in the street, no Englishman has been more signally honored than has the head of the Salvation Army in late years. He has been patronized by King Edward, received in audience by the rulers of many countries, and on his return from Palestine last year he was granted the freedom of the city of London. "In recognition of his great work for the moral and social elevation of the people," an honor which the city of London had been accustomed to bestow only on members of royal families, military and naval heroes or statesmen of marked pre-eminence.

Both Operators and Miners Want Peaceful Settlement of the Present Strike.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, April 10.—The subcommittee of anthracite mine owners and their employes will again meet in a joint conference this afternoon. It is believed by members of both committees that a settlement will be reached without resorting to a legal strike. Each side is anxious for peace and neither wants to shoulder the responsibility for a strike.

The subcommittees went into session at 1:30 o'clock and the operators presented a counter proposition providing that arbitration shall be limited to subjects of wages and adjustment of complaints through a conciliation board or otherwise. And they also demand that any new award of the commission shall stand for three years. The conference then adjourned until Thursday.

FORTY KILLED IN ONE BUILDING

Weight Of Ashes Breaks Roof Down-Thousands Are Missing On The Mountain Side, Thought
To Be Dead.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Naples, April 10.—It is estimated that two hundred people were buried alive this morning in the ruins of the market at Monte Oliveto, when the roof collapsed under the weight of cinders from Mount Vesuvius. Sixteen dead persons have been taken from the ruins and 176 injured are being cared for at hospitals.

Bad News
Terrifying news is received from all points throughout the district surrounding Ottajano. The reports indicate an enormous area is buried beneath ashes and cinders. All efforts to ascertain the exact number of victims of the eruption have failed. Forty bodies have already been taken out of the church at Ottajano and seventy bodies recovered at San Giuseppe and Terzigno.

Religious Parade
Just previous to the disaster a religious procession had been passing through the streets, the people desisting to render to the Almighty thanks for having apparently averted a much greater disaster than those hereto recorded here.

People Frantic
The news of the market disaster changed the joyous scene to one of gloom and the procession quickly disbanded. The people seemed demented. They surrounded the market in many cases tearing their hair, cursing and screaming.

A Judgment
Some were heard to say that a curse rested upon the people of Naples, for their repudiation of their saints yesterday when Mount Vesuvius was in its most violent mood.

Filmy Buildings
The most of the buildings in the villages near the volcano are of flimsy construction and have flat roofs and so are but poorly calculated to bear the weight of ashes and cinders that have fallen upon them. Inevitably it will be found that a considerable number of persons have perished by the falling of their homes.

Although the eruption of the volcano is less violent than it was twenty-four hours ago, the ashes are still falling in great quantities.

Many Refugees
Refugees from the threatened or destroyed villages are pouring into Naples by the thousands, arriving in every description of conveyance and on foot. The roads are crowded with processions of men and women carrying crosses and crying piteously. Special railway trains, war ships and steamers are employed in conveying the homeless people to Naples, Rome and Castellamare, while large numbers of people are fleeing overland to other cities.

Go to Naples
About 150,000 refugees from Vesuviana have sought shelter in Naples and elsewhere. Four thousand were lodged in the Granlie barracks in this city. All the trains are delayed owing to the tracks being covered with cinders, and telegraphic communication with all points is badly congested. The number of fugitives is increasing everywhere and it is estimated that about half a million people have fled from their homes. Many persons are leaving Naples in alarm, and as traffic on the railroads is interrupted, many of these fugitives are going to Sicily by sea.

Flight Is Cut Off
Not less than 15,000 refugees have reached Castellamare, where the steamer Princess Mafalda is anchored. This vessel left the island of Capri with 1,000 passengers, including many foreigners, on board, but she was unable to reach her destination owing to the stifling clouds of ashes and the fumes of gases from the volcano which enveloped her a mile from the coast.

The government is exerting itself for the relief of the destitute. This work, however, is obstructed by the congestion of all means of transportation, which are monopolized in the carrying of people out of the zone of danger.

The Situation
The situation can be summarized as follows:

The conditions at Torre Annunziata and Pompeii have improved owing to the change in the direction taken by the flowing lava. Serious apprehension was felt for the inhabitants of the country about Caserta, termed the Versailles of Naples, a place of about 35,000 inhabitants, in whose direction the lava is flowing.

At Nola
The town of Nola, an old place of 15,000 inhabitants, twenty-one miles from Naples, is being buried under the showers of ashes coming down from the crater, which were carried by the wind as far as the Adriatic sea. The stream of lava which had been threatening Torre Annunziata, a town of 28,000 inhabitants, twelve miles from Naples, on the road to Castellamare, has remained stationary since yesterday, so that the danger that the place would be overwhelmed seemed to have passed. The action of Mount Vesuvius had perceptibly diminished and the shower of ashes ceased to fall over Naples for a time yesterday. But ashes and sand began falling again later in the day.

Tells of Town's Ruin
Lieutenant Clarucci, commanding a detachment of troops, who witnessed the destruction of Bosco Trecese, describes the event as follows:

"All was quiet in the town just before its destruction, the people believing that they were safe from the stream of lava, but after midnight fierce rumblings were heard, followed by violent earth shocks, which shattered the windows and cracked the walls. The lava then began to flow from Mount Cirameila near where a fresh fissure opened a few days ago. A wild panic ensued, the people rushing about in the streets shrieking with terror."

"The Cirameila crater was by that time hurling forth masses of incandescent rock and a current of fire was sweeping down the mountain with terrific speed, flowing in two streams. One of them, 200 yards broad, was moving toward the center of the town. The population fled in terror to Torre Annunziata, while the soldiers visited the houses in order to see that all the inhabitants escaped. In so doing they rescued several bedridden old people, who had been left behind by their terrified relatives."

"Indescribable scenes of panic were witnessed. The people seemed to have lost all control over themselves. The town was hardly evacuated when a river of fire invaded the houses, and soon afterward Bosco Trecese seemed to be enveloped in flames. After passing Bosco Trecese, the two streams of lava joined and flowed toward Torre Annunziata."

INSURRECTION BREAKS OUT AMONG "FAITHFUL" NOW

Trouble Is Brewing In The Ranks Of The Workingmen At The State Capitol.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., April 10.—The Wisconsin civil service commission is called upon to handle a small insurrection in the department of labor and industrial statistics. J. H. Harbeck of Appleton, deputy factory inspector under Commissioner Beck, is alleged with plotting by political intrigue to circumvent his superior and cause the removal of Commissioner Beck from office. Harbeck failed in the non-competitive civil service examination and charged that Commissioner Beck was to blame in informing by Harbeck as an inspector of factories. It is alleged that Harbeck, who has behind him some newspaper and other political weapons, has secured pledges from gubernatorial candidates Davidson, Connor and Leinroot that in the event of their election they would oust Beck and appoint Harbeck. The charge against Harbeck before the civil service commission comes in the shape of a petition for peremptory removal from office and charges "pernicious political activity" which is expressly forbidden by the civil service law. It is alleged that Harbeck will be dropped by reason of his failure to pass the non-competitive examination so that a test of the "pernicious activity" feature of the law may not be made. The declaration has been made that such a test would result in the overthrow of the law, as it restricts an employee of the state in the exercise of his rights as a citizen in the participation in politics. Harbeck was appointed by Governor La Follette two years ago for political work done in the last strenuous gubernatorial fight in Wisconsin, and it appears that the appointment was made largely as were many at that time, for political goods delivered.

SUPPORTING SUBSIDY BILL

Marine Boilermaker Testifies—Also Ship Builder—Labor Delegate Given a Calling.

(By William Wolff Smith.)
 Washington, D. C., April 10.—Special Correspondence.—For awhile this morning it looked as though there would be another jolly row in the House Committee on Merchant Marine over the ship subsidy bill. Patrick Donohue, of San Francisco, vice-president of the Boilermakers' Association, was pleading for the bill in behalf of the Association, when Representative Hinshaw, of Nebraska, attempted to interrogate him regarding matters in the bill on which it was evident he was not informed. Representative Humphrey of Washington, one of the warmest advocates of the measure, interrupted with an answer to the question. "I did not ask you," I asked the witness," snapped Mr. Hinshaw. Mr. Humphrey replied warmly which brought Mr. Hinshaw to his feet with an energetic protest against being interrupted. "I hold that every member of the committee has a right to interrogate every witness," he said, "everybody wants a subsidy bill but we want a good one." Acting Chairman Minor growled out that Mr. Hinshaw was well within his rights and the incident passed but broke out again when Mr. Humphrey again attempted to answer a question addressed by Mr. Hinshaw to the witness. Representative Hinshaw vigorously protested which drew from Mr. Humphrey a sarcastic remark to the effect that "it is evident the gentleman is opposed to the measure." This Mr. Hinshaw denied, replying that all he wanted was to secure a "good bill." During Donohue's testimony he said that ten thousand boilermakers on the Pacific Coast, fifty per cent were unemployed. Of 123 vessels built in the United States last year only nine were ocean-going the remainder being for the Great Lakes.

"I am not much on argument," said Alexander Cochran, of Bath, Me., "but I can give you some facts." Mr. Cochran is a sub-contractor in ship building, employing about a dozen men, and proved a most interesting witness, entertaining the committee and spectators with his highly diverting and original expressions. In his seventeen years' experience he has worked all the way up and down the Atlantic coast and he gave a resume of his employment at Sparrows Point, Baltimore, Newport News, Elizabethport, Quincy, Mass.; Philadelphia and Bath, showing how he had been employed almost constantly on tow-boats or government work as there was nothing else. "Seven yards we have in Bath," he said, "where we are building two ships and one of them is for the government. Bath is called the 'Shipping City,' take away its shipping and the town is dead. Yet all we can get is a three-masted schooner and a government scout. I tell you gentlemen, he continued, warming up to his subject, "if you had American vessels the government would not be in the condition it is in the Spanish war when it had to buy rotten, rattle-traps from foreigners. I swear that when making these ships over into transports, I often drove my hammer through the rotten shells. It was a shame for the government to send our soldiers to sea in such hulks but it was the best that could be had."

"How is shipbuilding in Maine, now?" asked Representative Minor. "Nothing doing," he replied; "nothing doing in Maine, and little anywhere." Continuing Mr. Cochran said, "I understand the Granges are objecting to this bill. I don't see why the farmers should object to a bill to provide ships to carry his goods for him. Shipbuilding employs more trades than any other occupation from the men who till the soil, who dig the coal, who work in iron, the carpenters and boilermakers to the shipbuilders proper. You give the farmers free seeds, you protect the lobstermen, and the oysters—everything, every trade is protected but shipbuilding and you let the foreigners carry all our commerce. Give us a chance," he pleaded. "We don't want it all, but there is so little going around that we don't get anything."

"I see you provide that part of the crews must be Americans. We would be glad if you would make it that all workmen on the ships should be American citizens. I came here from England seventeen years ago and the first thing I became a citizen as soon as I could."

"Do you employ skilled workmen?" asked Representative Sprague. "Well, they have to be pretty 'fly' to their jobs," was the response. "What do you mean by 'fly'?" asked the puzzled congressman. "You see it's this way," responded Cochran, "any man can carry a hod, but any man can't carry a hod up a ladder."

J. F. Grimes, representing the American Federation of Labor, read copies of letters from President Gomper's criticizing the tonnage tax, the naval reserve feature and the percentage of Americans to be employed. Representative Humphrey pointed out that the letters referred to old bills and were not applicable to the bill passed by the senate. "I understand that only five per cent of the men in the Pacific Coast Sailors' union are American citizens," he said. "Now if we increase the percentage of Americans required, how are we to get our crews? How do you propose to get Americans when they are not there?" Mr. Grimes started to ask A. Furuseth, the representative of the Sailors' union to answer, when Mr. Humphrey sharply interrupted. "I don't want him to answer," he said. "I know his views. He is opposed to the bill, but as his organization has only five per cent Americans, I want you to answer."

Mr. Grimes confessed he did not know how many American sailors could be had when there were none. "Would not the bill benefit American labor?" inquired Representative Green of Massachusetts. "It would seem so," reluctantly replied Mr. Grimes. At the afternoon session A. Furuseth, the legislative agent of the Pacific Coast Seamen's union, gave an interesting exposition of the manner in which his association does business on the Pacific slope. In discussing the question of desertion he stated that although there was a law against it the sailors did not observe it. "Do you mean to say," asked Rep. Humphrey, in surprise, "that you do not obey the law?" "We do it in defiance of the law," replied Furuseth. "When I believe a law unjustly restricts my liberty I don't hold that I have to obey it. I don't consider it is binding on me. I have deserted from a vessel more than once and it is likely I shall again," he added vehemently. Rep. Humphrey pressed him closely regarding his frank contempt for the law and finally asked, "Do you teach members of the union how to head also violate the law?" "Yes, I do," cried Furuseth, almost at a white heat. "I have gone on vessels and induced sailors to desert." He then related how on one occasion he had induced the sailors on a Norwegian vessel to leave it pledging the union to "take care of them." Continuing he warmly defended his open violation of the law and Rep. Humphrey asked him: "Do you concede to others the right to violate any law that they may think restricts their liberty?" "No," was the reply; "this is the only law of its kind as far as I am aware." The witness opposed the subsidy bill because it provides that certain American sailors who receive compensation from the government shall be members of the naval reserve and shall be liable to service in the navy in case of war, but said the percentage of Americans in it was considerably more than five per cent as had been alleged.

Ansley Wilcox, an eminent attorney of Buffalo, speaking on general lines, stated that he was a democrat and opposed to the general principle of subsidies, but believed the pending measure to be fair and economical. "The general sentiment in Buffalo among republicans and independenters is that the United States should do something for the merchant marine and that now is the time to do it."

BEASTS OF PREY ON THE RESERVE TIMBER

Experts Devising Means to Protect Cattle and Sheep from Attacks of Wolves and "Lions."

Wolves and mountain lions are giving the stockmen a good deal of trouble on the ranges in several of the National forest reserves. Vigorous complaints have been made to the Forest Service of the loss of cattle and sheep, particularly cattle from this cause. Protection is sought by the stock men, and the Forest Service, which collects a fee for the grazing permits, has promptly assumed the task of finding and putting to effect practical measures to aid the destructive animals.

The chief difficulty has been on the Wind River Division of the Yellowstone reserve, in Wyoming. Some of the livestock companies in the region assert that the wolves are increasing so rapidly that the future welfare of the cattle industry is in serious danger. Among the proposals which these conditions have called forth are that a bounty be offered for the animals' destruction. The stockmen along the northern boundary of the Gila reserve, in New Mexico, and in the Wichita, in Oklahoma, have suffered almost as severely.

Last spring the government appointed John Goff, the skillful hunter who acted as guide to the President during his hunting trip a year ago, as Forest Ranger, and set him to hunting "lions" in the Shoshone Division of the Yellowstone reserve, in Montana. Now that the appeal from the stockmen on other reserves is so vigorous, especially for the extermination of the wolves, the Service has just sent out an expert into the field to study the wolf problem. The man selected for this work is a recognized authority on the game and other wild animals of the country, Mr. Vernon Bailey, Chief Field Naturalist of the Biological Survey, from which he has been temporarily transferred in order to secure his services for this important project.

The animals which are causing so much trouble to stockmen are common in their native habitat, but are little known to Easterners who have not hunted them. The wolf is known in the West as the "timber" wolf. Though not large, it is powerful and quick. Not only does it kill calves and yearlings with ease, but it attacks and overcomes full-grown cattle. When after this larger prey it does not go for the throat, as so many beasts do, but fastens its teeth in the muscles of the leg hamstringing its victim, which falls defenseless. But little of the carcass is usually devoured by the wolves. The "lion" is, of course, the cougar, and is a large and powerful beast, capable of playing havoc among the cattle.

The wolves and lions are not classed in the West as game animals, but are regarded as pests, and are commonly termed "varmints." Wherever they are plentiful a bounty is offered to encourage their extermination. Despite this, they are still sufficiently numerous to work much harm, and it is said that in some localities they are on the increase.

It is particularly notable that there has been so much complaint from the Wichita reserve, which the President has set aside as a game refuge. The wolves and cougars are the enemies of other wild animals, and the sportsman, who desires to encourage American sport and to preserve American game, can be counted on to aid in the work of hunting them down.

In any case, however, the lion and the wolf must be driven from the ranges. Interests larger and more substantial than those of the hunter and trapper demand it. The great livestock industry, which the Forest Reserve has pledged itself to encourage in all legitimate directions, has had to pay the heavy costs in the loss of cattle, young and full grown. That those holding permits may be assured the full enjoyment of their privileges unmolested, every effort will be made by the government to co-operate with the stockmen in protecting herds grazing on the reserves from attack.

FACULTY WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT PARTY

Students Who Attended "Dick" Remp's Party Brought on the Carpet.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
 Madison, Wis., April 10.—The delightful lager beer party given to a hundred or more University of Wisconsin students by "Dick" Remp, ex-football hero, has come officially before the faculty and is now in the hands of the discipline committee for investigation. Two dozen students who were present at the function when Dean E. A. Birge and Professor Augustus Trowbridge happened in have been summoned to appear and describe the occasion. This incident is becoming a difficult matter for the faculty to handle. None of the students are charged with drunkenness, although some of the guests of Mr. Remp became very enthusiastic before the night was over. They can not be charged with frequenting saloons, for the party was held in a specially hired hall. They can not be charged with disorderly conduct, for statements have been issued by the police department that the students were "quiet and orderly." The faculty is determined, however, not to allow such a practice to become established here and some drastic measures are expected.

"Why Hello, Bill,
 you don't seem to mind this rainstorm a little bit. I don't mind a dollar here you got on, anyway!"
 "Oh, that's one of those new LITHOLIN waterproofed linen collars. It takes no more for rain than rain takes for a fact. The rain does it good. It keeps it dry. Why don't you get some?"
 "By the way, I will right now. I'll get it at the Fibertoid Co., NEW YORK."

JAP ACROBATS AT WEST SIDE THEATRE

Wonderful Feats by Troupe of Four—
 Wee Mite Performs Stunts—
 Other Good Artists.

Were the members of the "Nambas Troupe," Japanese acrobats appearing at the West Side, old enough to have been on the road as long as John L. Sullivan, they would attract just as immense audiences by their name as did the great pugilist. The company is composed of four, a father and three sons. The greater part of the difficult and very entertaining work is done by the two older boys and the father, while the youngest, almost miniature in size, performed feats that surprised all. Gordon & Hayes, singing and dancing sisters, are above the average and are deserving of very favorable mention. So also is Dave Darden, musical comedian. The motion pictures shown here, "The Cracksmen," Nelson and French, furnish an amusing comedy sketch and George Hatch sings "Don't Cry, Katie Dear" and "In the Valley of Yesterday."

The first rehearsal took place in the church parlors and about sixty people were present. Some one hundred and fifty people are to take part in the performance and the first meeting was enthusiastic. Those present entered into the preliminary work with much interest.

The Use of Malt Extract in Food.

Cooked Wheat Treated With It and Then Baked Crisp and Brown Is "Nutritious and Delicious." Remarkable results are secured by treating whole wheat with malt extract, as is illustrated by that widely known food product, Malta-Vita, sometimes called "The Perfect Food." In the preparation of Malta-Vita we have these two factors: (a) the whole wheat, steamed and cooked in absolute cleanliness, and containing every food element necessary to the sustenance of the human body, (b) pure malt extract containing all the nutrition of best selected barley in a readily digestible form, so nutritious and strengthening that doctors everywhere recommend it.

The malt extract, mixed with the cooked wheat, contains the starch of the wheat into maltose, or malt sugar, an active digestive agent. The result is a perfect food, rich in all the nutrition that builds up bone and blood, brain and muscle, healthy tissue and nerve force. And Malta-Vita is good to eat. There's nothing like it, nothing that can take its place. After being mixed with the malt, the wheat is rolled into water-like flakes, every grain a little flake—and then baked in great, clean ovens under most intense heat. From the ovens Malta-Vita comes crisp and brown, "done to a turn," the most delicious, the most healthful food in the world. All grocers, 10 cents.

It might be quite dignified for a newspaper to simply state that a great disaster had taken place and that the people would want the details. So it might be quite dignified for a store to simply announce a great "annual sale" but the people would still want all of the details.

For a fire eater Dowie takes the bun.
Beloit sees the hopes of its post office vanishing in this air.
Dowie is back in Zion. Can you not hear the rumble of his voice?
Presidential candidates are being carefully groomed for the coming fray.
The south has now weakened from the anti-slavery sleep and is really progressing.
There is no question in the matter of spring being earnestly desired by everyone just now.
For an unskipped son Gladstone Dowie is doing fairly well in knowing of the wickedness of life.
Jim Davidson has not yet delivered his ultimatum to the voters of the state but he doubtless will shortly.
Wait until Mrs. Dowie really meets her loving spouse. Say, but that curtain lecture would be worth hearing.
Automobiles will never entirely take the place of horses although many new uses will be found for them yet.
The great political battle of the summer is soon to open. Watch for the opening guns which will soon be fired.
Jeffris still has the congressional bee buzzing about his bonnet. He and Mr. Cooper will probably be the two gladiators who will strip for the conflict during the coming summer.
That war cloud in the Balkans is soon to appear again. All thoughts of Germany and France getting together in a war now being lost in thin air and the war critics must have something to talk and write about.
The coal-strikers have now reached that stage where they stop to consider consequences before going ahead in a work of destruction of existing conditions. One step forward in the world's history.
HISTORY REPEATS.
With the eruption of Mount Vesuvius history is repeating itself. Centuries ago the prosperous city of Pompeii was destroyed by this giant wall of the Mediterranean. Now again the great mountain is pouring forth streams of lava, showering the surrounding country with hot ashes and utterly destroying the work of man. It is the great fight of nature against man with man powerless to stop the onslaughts of the elements. Mount Vesuvius has been one of the show places of the European continent. It has been fabled in song and story and now again it breaks forth as a rebuke to mankind.
"THE GOOD FELLOW."
Working in the Michigan City penitentiary in Indiana is the former state auditor of Indiana, Sherick. Convicted of misappropriation of the state funds he has a prison term to serve for the mere reason he was a "good fellow." One of the keenest politicians, shrewd business man and a good fellow he has met the fate that sooner or later comes to those who seek to be the "good fellow" on the public's money. His case is a sad one. One in which the state did not lose a penny but in which the prisoner was technically wrong and is now paying the penalty for his promiscuous use of the state's money. The man whom he elected governor, to whom he personally loaned money, was the first to discover his faults and disown him and from his hundreds of friends in prosperous days he is now lost sight of and known only as convict No. 30 and so.

THE STRIKE SITUATION.
John Mitchell has done a clever thing. He has done more than a clever thing. He has done a right thing. He has offered to submit all differences to arbitration and end the anarchistic strike.

Up to this time public opinion has been generally with the operators because it was believed that the miners had no such grievances as would justify them in a general strike. But by offering to arbitrate differences, Mr. Mitchell throws upon the operators the responsibility of deciding whether there shall be a strike or no strike.

If the contentions of the operators are just they can lose little by submission to arbitration. If, therefore, the operators refuse to arbitrate, public opinion would lean to the side of the miners. The operators may indeed say with not a little truth that there is nothing now to arbitrate that wasn't arbitrated three years ago. But even so, what is the harm in another arbitration, if by that means a strike may be averted.

LAW THE BALANCE.
In his speech at Tuskegee, President Eliot of Harvard University made a splendid presentation of the need of law and respect for law in any government which attempts to protect the liberty of the individual and the rights of society. There can be no really national progress without respect for law, and there can be no more clearer proof that a people are losing ground in the race for civilization than carelessness, insincerity and injustice in making laws and recklessness in breaking them.

This thought was addressed to the negroes in the Tuskegee school, but it might, with even more pertinence, have been addressed to an assemblage of Wall street men from the steps of the sub-treasury. There is no place in the world where law and respect for law are so important as in Wall street, for every piece of paper in which it deals, every certificate and contract which it makes depends for its value upon the maintenance of law and order, says the Wall Street Journal.

Dr. Eliot says that law holds the balance between individualism and collectivism. In the elaboration of this idea it may be said that every time a capitalist or a corporation disregards laws, evades law, breaks law, or in any way attempts to undermine law, he or it is working against the very prosperity and progress upon which its own wellbeing depends, and is playing into the hands of socialism.

PRESS COMMENT.

Tyler a Sinker to the Prophet.
Milwaukee Sentinel: The fact seems to be that Prophet Dowie is verging rapidly on the "unfit to print class."

Dickens No Hunter.
Exchange: "George Ade makes more money than Charles Dickens did." Still, Charles was a good man for his time.

What the Saloons Are Gone.
Stoughton-Hub: It is not yet definitely settled just who will contribute the funds for Stoughton's 4th of July celebration this year.

Strawberries in Evansville.
Evansville Review: Strawberries are still luxuries, although the retail price Saturday was only fifteen cents per box. About one cent per berry.

Mellifluous Melody.
Evening Wisconsin: For one whose business requires activity with more regard for force than for rhythm, Mr. Honey Melody, the pugilist, has a sweetly musical name.

Nobody Cheered.
Madison Journal: Terone K. Rome in a lecture in North Carolina predicted that race equality would come in time. The disbelievers say nothing about applause, however.

Go Ahead, Clayton!
Milwaukee Sentinel: By stopping that proposed "rabbit race" barbarity Supt. Clayton may interfere with some Beloit folks' idea of a pleasant Sunday. But go ahead, Mr. Clayton, anyhow.

Old Fondy's on the Map.
Milwaukee News: Fond du Lac has had a grand jury sitting on its local statesmen. There's no getting around it. Since it got the car shops, Fond du Lac has kept right on putting itself on the map.

Trifling With the Dignified.
Exchange: A correspondent of the New York World has discovered that the letters in the word senator spell treason. It seems, however, to be impossible to rearrange them so that they will spell regulation.

Needs But to Stir 'em Up.
Milwaukee Journal: There's no doubt about Babcock's renomination under the primary law. All he will have to do will be to start up La Follette candidates in each county and his machine will trim up the bunch easily.

A Fervent Hope.
Racine Journal: Let us hope that the appellation, "stink pot," is eliminated with Dowie's downfall. If the now leader, Voliva, wants to hurt some term of opprobrium at those outside of his fair city, let him invent an incentive that will not be quite so vulgar.

Have Had Hints Enough.
Chicago Tribune: Unprejudiced observers are inclined to think that the inhabitants of the villages on the slopes of Mount Vesuvius have no just cause of complaint. Certainly the old volcano has thrown out enough hints of its intentions. In all these hundreds of years, to have satisfied any reasonable person as to its true inwardness.

Some Like Him Better than Crow.
Milwaukee Journal: After going against the buzz saw two or three times, it is reported that Senator La Follette will not oppose the reapportionment of Judge Keyes as postmaster at Madison. As the organ says, "Everybody likes Keyes" and some people like him even better than they do Crow. They smack their lips over him.

Madison's Ninety Saloons.
Madison Democrat: Drunk-making continues with even increased industry since the election. But this is only a temporary evil. The recklessness of the business will eventually in a complete remedy being applied. Madison's ninety saloons are, indeed, the whipping with a certainty that must gratify even the most radical.

icals among temperance reformers.

Morality a Fad in London.
Saturday Review: There is nothing specially wicked about modern London. The fashion of vice has passed away, and monogamy is almost smart. What is so tiresome is the vapidity of the talk, first on one transitory fad, and next season on another. The upper class are losing their hold on the mind of the nation through sheer frivolity and lack of purpose.

A Waste That Stares.
Atobison, Kan. Globe: There is no money that shows it was wasted for so long a time as the money spent in a poor book. If the money was foolishly spent on something to eat, what it brought disappears; or if it was spent on something to wear, its products wear out. But the book on which money was wasted stares the purchaser in the face every time he goes near the bookcase.

For Each—a Platform.
Kaukauna Sun: The primary election law, unless repealed, will disrupt the old parties and, it will then be necessary for each candidate for office to run on his own platform. At the full elections you will see that party lines will not be followed as closely as they have in the past. If this was the intention of the framers of the primary election law, they have accomplished their purpose.

Spring Shooting Again.
Elkhorn Independent: The law prohibiting spring shooting of ducks has its supporters as well as opponents.

In this city. For years the hunters have been going through the lake section of the country for their spring game and they have thoroughly enjoyed the sport. Many of them are inclined to criticize the law, but they are the young hunters who are not classed as true sportsmen. The older hunters think the law is a good thing and look forward to excellent sport in the fall when ducks are very plentiful.

Mitigating Circumstances.
El Paso Herald: We are "living in a perpetual anachronism—judging the events of yesterday by the standards and facts of today." And it is very hard for those who condemn the insurance companies for chipping in to help beat Bryan, to realize the scare that reigned all over the country. That was some time ago. But the insurance people, keenly aware that if gold went to even 1 per cent premium it meant a loss of a million dollars on every $100,000,000 of their vast floating capital, regarded fifty or a hundred thousand dollars as little enough if they could help avert the calamity.

Cogitations on Dunn Ballot.
Oshkosh Northwestern: The Waukegan Post thinks the vote on the Dunn pocket ballot proposition should be a lesson to the legislature not to try to "foist its duties on the people." In one sense this is merited, for there was so little apparent merit to the patent ballot that the members of the legislature themselves might have settled the question without putting the state to the expense of a referendum.

The LOWELL DEPARTMENT STORE

But on the other hand it was much better for the legislature to leave it to the voters to decide than to have adopted the change under a mistaken idea it was something the people wanted.

Now for State Campaign!
Green Bay Gazette: It is rumored that Senator La Follette will make a flying trip to the state the latter part of the present month. It is probable that should he do so it will be for the purpose of looking over the political field, with particular reference to the campaign for governor. While state politics have been forced into the background for a few weeks on account of municipal campaigns he will find things warming up again by the time he gets here, and especially warm for his favorite, Irvine Levent.

Hardly Likely.
Fond du Lac Commonwealth: It was fortunate for the Dunn pocket ballot that it bore the name that it did. Many people had the idea that it was something that might be carried around in the pocket of the voter, and for this reason many voted against it. Had it been possible to distribute samples of the new ballot among the voters the result might have been different.

Socialism Not Gaining.
Exchange: The Socialists polled 27,716 votes in the great city of Chicago, Tuesday, out of a total of 261,575. They had claimed equal numbers in Milwaukee, but failed to make good their claim. Considering the circumstances that they asserted on Monday their belief that they would show a strength of 37,000, and that when the matter came to a test the next day, they felt nearly 11,000 below that mark, it must be conceded that they are taking the result very cheerfully.

Mistaken Identity.
Automobilist—Why are you crying, little girl?
Little Girl—Oh, please, Mister Bear, don't eat my doll!
Cement Block Still a Novelty.
Berlin Journal: Will Jones has been making a large lot of cement blocks for his new residence on Pearl street, opposite the library. There is much interest to see this new structure, being the first cement block house in the city. It will look very much like Bedford stone, we judge.

Town Talk

Just now, with the election over and the arrival of real spring-delayed, there seems to have fallen on local affairs one of those lulls which are most distressing to the quid nuncs who like to loiter about the cigar stores or the city hall and exchange salacious anecdotes and comment pertinent to some unusual event of the hour. At one of these "hang-outs" yesterday the lack of excitement was openly bewailed and an attempt was made to form a pool and draw votes to decide which of the group should go to Zion City to take first hand observations of those stirring episodes which are expected to attend the return of the prophet. The effort was not successful. Meanwhile, at the police station, the departure of a certain minister and his family from the church parsonage to another residence was noted as something unusual and contrary to precedent and in the search for an adequate cause it was finally decided that the cause must be haunted. A first class "haunt" of ten years' standing was devised by the exercise of a little ingenuity and a collection of incidents, partially founded on fact but mostly mythical, is even now in the process of the weaving. Bye and bye, if this keeps on, the source of these yarns and the deliberate methods by which they were manufactured, will be lost sight of and the house in question will become possessed of an A. 1. 22 carat, voracious old ghost whose imaginary tantrums, passed along to the credulous in whispers, will depreciate the value of the real estate 100 per cent.

Henry L. Austin of Evansville transacted business here last evening.

John Peters of the firm of Hayes Bros. and Company returned this morning to Lockport, Illinois, where he is in charge of the work the company is constructing there.

NORTHWESTERN ROAD IS SHORT OF COAL

Have Begun Using Reserve Supply and Taken Off All Extra Work Trains.

While the railroads throughout the land are refusing to deliver coal and buying all that is on the market, the Northwestern road is now actually getting short of fuel. Last summer the road purchased a large supply and stored it at many points on the line in anticipation of the trouble this year, knowing that there would probably be a strike when the agreement between the miners and operators expired. A large amount was placed in the local yards and immense quantities in Chicago. Both supplies are now being drawn on. The use of the coal stored there was begun yesterday and though the fuel is of a rather inferior quality it is being placed in the tender of the locomotives. This is the first coal that has been stored here for a number of years. There was a time when this method of keeping a constant supply of coal on hand was used, but of recent years the road has been able to purchase fuel the year around. It was expected that the stored coal would not be called for until summer, but nevertheless it is necessary to use it now. Another fact to show that the company is fearing a fuel famine is that circulars have been issued to department foremen, stating that no work trains are now being sent out, without special orders from headquarters.

STAGE IMPROVED AT THE MYERS THEATRE

New Switchboard, Wiring, and Border Lights From The "Colonial" Installed at Cost of $400.

During the past few weeks electricians have been at work back of the curtain at the Myers theatre installing an entirely new system of lighting. All of the old wiring and effects have been removed and a new system in which every chance of accident is eliminated has been substituted. High up among the drops, parallel and about six or eight feet apart have been hung four thirty-six foot incandescent metal troughs which hold 40 white electric bulbs, 20 red lamps and 20 blue ones. These are the so-called border lights and were secured from the Colonial theatre, Chicago, when the advent of the big "Prince of India" production made larger ones necessary. They had been in use about eight months when they were offered to Manager Myers, and inasmuch as they were the most modern and perfect devices of the kind obtainable he hastened to clinch a very advantageous bargain. Along with the lights and wiring a handsome Tennessee marble switchboard, which provides for all manner of manipulation of the foot and border lights, was installed, so that the stage may be flooded at one moment with an illumination of glaring red, white, or blue, or by aid of the "dimmers" the light may be modified and softened for shadowy dawns, sunsets, and afterglows, at the will of the operator. The cost of the improvements has approximated $400 and the Myers theatre now has the safest and most complete electrical equipment of any playhouse in the state outside of Milwaukee.

COMMENCE WORK ON $320,000 CONTRACT

Hayes Brothers to Build Fender Wall, Two Dams, Lock and Trail Race at Lockport, Ill.

Work on the new $320,000 contract held by the Hayes Brothers and Company of this city for the construction of several portions of the Chicago Drainage Canal at Lockport, Ill., is now being started. The work consists of building a fender wall, two dams, a lock and a trail race and about a year and a half will be consumed in the construction. Between three hundred and four hundred men will be employed. Some of these will be from Janesville, but the common laborers are to be from Chicago and Joliet. The Hayes Brothers and Company are also still at work on an immense power-house for Chicago. It was started a year ago and is about half finished. Not one day was lost this winter, the weather not having been cold enough to stop operations. The entire work that is being done by the Janesville firm involves some $700,000 and in it about 70,000 barrels of cement are being used. John Peters, one of the firm, is in charge of the mason and cement work.

OBITUARY

Franklin Strunk

Franklin Strunk, for many years a resident of Janesville, but for the past thirteen years a resident of Riverside, California, died in that city on April 3. Mr. Strunk was born in Chautauque county, New York, in 1833, of revolutionary stock and was the second in a family of eight children. In his family was represented the interesting westward movement of the early half of the last century. In 1839 his father took up a tract of wild land in Rock county, Wisconsin, where he died five years later. His wife was a woman of strong character and great self reliance. Franklin was now the oldest son and of an age to be helpful. They prospered in the new country and their home near the little city of Janesville became well known for its kindly hospitality. In 1855 Franklin Strunk married Helen A. Pepper of Janesville, by whom he had four children, one of whom survives, J. Frank Strunk of Riverside, California. After the death of his first wife, Mr. Strunk, in 1886, married Miss Etta Cole of Lake Crystal, Minn., who survives him, and by whom he had one child, a daughter, who died in early youth.

Mr. Strunk's business movements showed the typical American enterprise. Soon after attaining his majority he sought a larger field than Janesville afforded by removing to Chicago. There, in 1882, fire destroyed his business and engaged in the lumber trade. This he got firmly established and five years later entered the same line of trade at Mankato, Minn. He moved to Riverside in 1889, where he has since resided.

Mr. Connors and Mr. Smith ran almost a neck and neck race yesterday when the former received 4064 votes and the latter 4597.

Miss Wills reduced the plurality which Mrs. Mason held over her for second place and the former retained second honors by little more than a hundred votes. Mrs. Spicer received 1133 votes during the day. Mrs. Dunwiddie received 980, Miss Wills 401, Mrs. Mason 115 and Miss Conroy 80. Mr. Hemmens had 377 and Mr. Nichols 113.

"That looks like they were playing ball," said a caller at the Gazette office this morning when he noted that nearly two hundred thousand votes had been polled in the Gazette diamond contest. "That's way more than I looked for after they were all in," he continued, "but I've quit the forecasting business entirely so far as this contest is concerned."

It is a remarkable vote when it is remembered that the basis of representation is only a fraction more than one vote for each issue of the paper for each of the candidates and a still more remarkable feature of the contest is that there seems to be no limit to the number of votes that are coming in from the leaders from their friends everywhere.

= FORTY YEARS AGO =

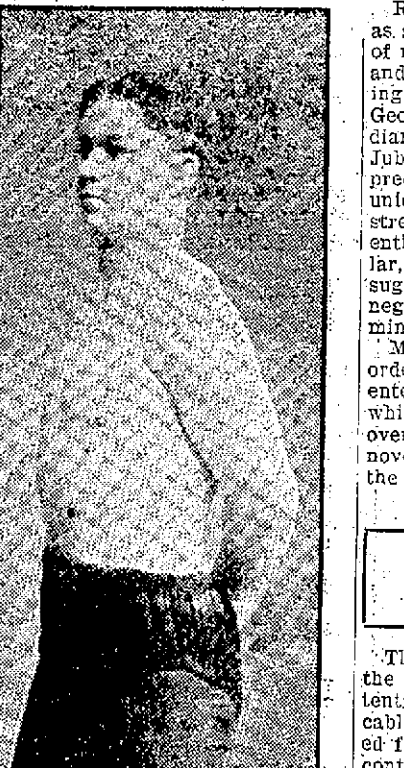

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, April 10, 1866.—Still Rising.—The water in the river is still on the rise, having come up an inch since last night. There is no indication of weakness, more than usual, on the embankment of the river, but of course, when there is such an immense pressure of water there must be constant danger. We hope and believe that everything which can be done to keep the water within bounds, will be resorted to. We learn that the water has not yet fallen any at Fort Atkinson, and it must therefore, under the most favorable circumstances, be twenty-four hours before there will be any diminution in the volume at this place.

Shall We Not Have the Funds? Since the Legislature has granted a charter for the improvement of Rock River, it becomes the duty of the people to take hold of the matter in earnest. The first necessary work to be done is to procure a working survey of the river, and this can only be done at considerable labor and expense. In view of this fact, the Rock River Improvement Advisory Committee, at their meeting in this city on the 9th inst., deemed it necessary that each town in the county should raise a hundred dollars to aid in the survey. We believe the people of the county are not only willing but glad to put their shoulder to the wheel in this matter, and but need to know what is necessary to be done in the premises to take hold and do it. If every one will give a few shillings, the requisite amount to prosecute the survey can be obtained. Shall we not commence the work at once?

The Sturgeon Bay Canal.—The bill granting to the State of Wisconsin two hundred acres of public land, to aid in constructing a breakwater and ship canal and harbor and ship canal, connecting Sturgeon Bay in Green Bay, directly with Lake Michigan, has passed both houses of Congress and will doubtless be approved by the President. The canal is to be at least one hundred feet wide and thirteen feet deep. It is to be finished in three years. As soon as the State shall be fully reimbursed for all its expenditures upon the work, the tolls are to be reduced so as to pay only the cost of maintaining the canal. It is reported that the enterprise is to be commenced immediately.

FOOTLIGHT FLASHES

EDWARD FRANK BOWENS Who will wrestle Frank Clapper of Sharon at the Myers theatre tomorrow evening, match to be "catch as catch can," best two out of three.

Real old time dark acts are almost as scarce as hens' teeth in these days of ragtime eccentricities on the stage, and for that very reason the interest in specialty shows on these lines by Geo. L. Wade, one of the many comedians of the William H. West Big Jubilee Minstrels is all the more appreciated. Mr. Wade occupies a unique position on the modern minstrel stage, inasmuch as his act stands entirely alone in nearly every particular. It is new, absolutely so, and still suggests much of the style of aged negro impersonations so popular while minstrelsy was yet in its infancy.

WOOL MARKET

The associated press throughout the country has paid considerable attention recently to wool reports. The cables from London have been quoted freely and also items in regard to contracts in the far west. These naturally have raised the hopes of growers to quite a high pitch and have started up the enthusiasm of some local dealers. We beg to call your attention, however, to the fact that London is a selling market and
